

TIME	TITLE	DESCRIPTION	ADDITIONAL INFO
19:00 5'	Introduction	Introduction to the workshop	The facilitator briefly introduces the participants to the purpose of the workshop, what they will learn, and invites them to be active throughout the session.
19:05 10'		Get to know each other	The facilitator introduces himself and says a few things about himself, after which he invites the participants to introduce themselves
19:15 5'		Energizer	One participant says a color, and the others must bring to the room an object that has that color.
19:20 10'		Introduction of the concept of active citizenship	The participants are invited to write each of them what they understand by this concept, after which they invite those who want to explain. At the end, the facilitator makes a short summary of the discussions.
19:30 20'		Interactive questions and debate	The following questions will be, in turn, written on the Padlet, and participants must click the like button if the answer is "yes" and dislike for "no". After all participants have voted, each of them is invited to explain why they voted yes or no. The questions are: Do you think it is important to be an active citizen? Why? Do you think that anyone can become an active citizen? Why? Do you consider yourself an active citizen? Why? How do you think you could get more involved in the community you belong to?
19:50 10'		Conclusions	The facilitator encourages the participants to express their opinion about what was discussed, what they learned, or what caught their attention. The order is random, but if the participants do not express their opinion, the facilitator will invite them, in turn, to do so
20:00

TOTAL LENGTH: 01:00

Active Citizenship - block details

19:00
5' Introduction

Introduction to the workshop

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

The facilitator briefly introduces the participants to the purpose of the workshop, what they will learn, and invites them to be active throughout the session.

19:05
10'

Get to know each other

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

The facilitator introduces himself and says a few things about himself, after which he invites the participants to introduce themselves

19:15
5'

Energizer

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

One participant says a color, and the others must bring to the room an object that has that color.

19:20
10'

Introduction of the concept of active citizenship

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

The participants are invited to write each of them what they understand by this concept, after which they invite those who want to explain. At the end, the facilitator makes a short summary of the discussions.

19:30
20'

Interactive questions and debate

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

The following questions will be, in turn, written on the Padlet, and participants must click the like button if the answer is "yes" and dislike for "no". After all participants have voted, each of them is invited to explain why they voted yes or no.

The questions are:

Do you think it is important to be an active citizen? Why?

Do you think that anyone can become an active citizen? Why?

Do you consider yourself an active citizen? Why?

How do you think you could get more involved in the community you belong to?

19:50
10'

Conclusions

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

The facilitator encourages the participants to express their opinion about what was discussed, what they learned, or what caught their attention. The order is random, but if the participants do not express their opinion, the facilitator will invite them, in turn, to do so
