

How would you (re)act in these situations? What would you do?

1) You have to go to an important meeting.

In the subway station, you see a desperate wheelchair user in front of the escalator.

The elevator is broken and cannot be used.

2) You have a business meeting with a Muslim woman.

You want to shake her hand as this is a typical way of greeting in your country. She refuses this kind of greeting.

3) Your 17-year-old cousin informs you that he has fallen in love with another boy. He doesn't know what to do.

4) A mother with baby and toddler is asking you to help her carry the buggy down the stairs.

5) You witness that a woman wearing a niqab is insulted and verbally threatened by a passerby.

6) You see a teenager offering drugs to a child in front of the school building.

How would you (re)act in these situations? What would you do?